Class Song

MOMENTS TO REMEMBER

The time has come when we must part
But we still feel, within our hearts,
We'll have memories to last forever.

Our Junior Prom, a wonderland,
Our Senior Fantasy so grand;
These are memories to last forever.

The football games we almost won,
The ones that seemed so near;
Assemblies, too, and friends so true
Will linger through the years.

A fond farewell to all of you
From we, the class of sixty-two;
You are now our memories forever.

James Kerrigan and Karen Kerrigan look at the burned-out part of the old C.H.S.

FRESHMAN YEAR . . .

As the days quickly pass by and we prepare to leave C.H.S., we look back with happy memories of the past four years. September, 1958, we entered C.H.S. as the first freshman class, faced with the problem of moving from building to building as a result of a fire, which completely destroyed the middle section of the high school. There was many a sly smile from the upperclassmen as we continually lost our way in our travels.

At the beginning of our Freshman Year we were introduced to Mr. William Gosselin, who became our class advisor and dear friend. After becoming familiar with the school routine, we held our first class election, resulting in the selection of the following: Thomas Shaughnessy, President; Marguerite Kerrigan, Vice-President; Paul Cherubini, Treasurer; Karen Kerrigan, Secretary.

Throughout our Freshman activities, the dreaded thought of our first midyears haunted us. Finally we saw them come and go with a sigh of relief. The rest of the year flew by; it was soon June and we looked forward to a nice long summer, and September when we would become Sophomores.

SOPHOMORE YEAR . . .

Another September — but this year we gained a little more self-confidence because we were no longer considered "Little Frosh." We chose as our class officers: Paul Cherubini, President; Joan Ryan, Vice-President; Joseph Dintino, Treasurer; Karen Kerrigan, Secretary. Our activities this year were to be a never-to-be-forgotten bottle drive, food sale, magazine sale, and a raffle for a television set. We selected our class rings which we received during the end of the year.

Meanwhile rehearsals were being held for Inter-Class Dramatics and we had to pause in our routine for midyears.

In June another eventful year came to a close. September seemed far away, but we anticipated our Junior year, when we could plan for our Junior Prom.

JUNIOR YEAR . . .

Juniors and upperclassmen at last! This proved to be one of our busiest years, but everyone greeted it with eagerness. Our class officers were: Paul Cherubini, President; Joan Ryan, Vice-President; Joseph Dintino, Treasurer; Janice Coccione, Secretary. We chose our class colors — orchid and white.

After midyears and Inter-Class Dramatics we started planning for one of the highlights of our high school days — our Junior Prom. Sally Gould and Terry Kraft were chosen as co-chairmen. "Wonderland by Night" was selected as our theme with Perry Conti as our orchestra. The hall was decorated in our Class colors, a crystal ball, an old fashioned garden, and 500 gorgeous lavender and white orchids flown in from Hawaii. Our efforts and hard work were certainly rewarded as our Prom turned out to be the most beautiful and enjoyable Prom ever to be held at Clinton High School.

The year terminated and we faced our summer vacation with mixed emotions. Come September, we would be the upper echelon with all the responsibilities and worries of a Senior Class.

SENIOR YEAR . . .

Now we have attained our goal as "Seniors." This is the year of all years. We started the year with the election of our class officers: Paul Cherubini, President; Joan Ryan, Vice-President; Joseph Dintino, Treasurer; Janice Coccione, Secretary. As in past years, we continued with our activities, and added more as the year progressed. Dances, whist parties, food sales, and selling of Christmas cards were some additions to the list.

Class pictures were taken and the class was busy exchanging them and planning for the yearbook. But, as usual, we had to pause again for midyears, which were to be our last at C.H.S.

In January, our class was proud to achieve another first. We were to be the first graduating class from the new high school. On January 29, 1962, the entire student body of C.H.S. said good-bye to Guidi's Bakery, walking outdoors between classes, and greeted the new and beautiful Clinton High School.

In February, our Senior Hop, "Fantasy of Angels," was held. Joan Ryan and William Hohl were co-chairmen. Our gay decorations, plus class spirit, made this event a success.

As the days of graduation came upon us, it was hard to believe that our four years of high school were over. Graduation was the end of our high school days; but the happiest years of our life are yet to come.

Class Prophecy

Let's take a look into the future with a book to read,
To forget the past, and satisfy curiosity's need.
The "Book of Life" it happens to be:
This is the story of you and me.
In the year nineteen hundred and eighty-six
These are our futures as they will be.

Upon arriving at Clintartica's spectacular airport, which was designed by Joe Dintino, aeronautical engineer, we note several buildings just outside the gate.

The large glass-walled building in the center with a huge dome contains the "Weather or Not" weather bureau offices managed by Paul Vaghini, assisted by his competent secretary, Gloria Ginas.

In the adjoining building we find the "Service Club" for jet pilots and their staffs. Looking around we see some familiar faces such as Richard Blake, Fred Kosiewski, and Dave Gavin, all pilots. Chief Stewardesses Judy Gulliver and Evelyn Hauver are in deep conversation with the manufacturer, Billy Sullivan.

On the upper floor of this building appear the armed services departments. Through the lettering painted on the various doors by Paul O'Malley, eminent sign painter, it is revealed that the military powers seem to be invested in the capable hands of General Al Fortugno and Admiral Jim Marko. In the women's branch we see Commanders Judy Caferelli and Rita McMahon widely known organizers of women's armed services.

Passing through the residential section we find the garage of Francis Baird & Son, which specializes in the mechanics of helicopters which everyone uses for traveling in and around the city.

Going further down the street we stop at Clintartica Hospital where we find Nancy Baird, chief lab technician. On we go down the hall bumping into head nurse Ann Davidson, with her assistants, Eileen Walsh and Pamela Wiles. They are getting ready to assist Doctor Walter Gleisberg in a very delicate operation.

In the research department, the director is talking to the head surgical nurse, Paula Chandler.

Our illustrious psychiatrist is Doctor Sally Gould, whose offices occupy a wing of the hospital. Her success is evident. In her research she has been competently aided by Ruth McGinnis.

Reaching another part of the hospital we have our school of nursing headed by Marguerite Kerrigan and our X-ray department headed by Ann O'Malley and Kathy DeCesare.

Nearby are the Spaceship sales rooms of supersalesmen Dick Stoebel and John Tagg who have a monopoly on the spaceships in this country.

Quickly hailing a taxicab owned by Randall and William Davidson we make our way to the business section of Clintartica, where we find the ultramodern State House and City Hall. We discover that the present mayor is Terence Gibbons, assisted by our city clerk, Dorothy Kulis, who invented a modern filing system. Further down the hall are the joint offices of our two famous senators: James Kerrigan and Michael Kilcoyne, noted for their well-known television debates.

Next on the agenda are the law-enforcer's offices. The office of the police commissioner, Brian "always gets his man" Desautels, can be found in an office building designed by John Graves. The next few rooms are vacant at the moment because our foreign ambassadors are visiting their respective countries: Rena Rossignol in her native France, while Claude Reitenauer visits Germany, and Joseph Nicoletti tours Italy. There is a sign on the Fish & Game Commissioner Dick O'Toole's door reading, "Gone Fishing."

In the same building we find other distinguished professions such as the Le Compte Insurance Agency under the auspices of Linda LeCompte and Joanne

Decoteau as her assistant. Also, the Physical Education Department headed by Janice Coccione and Debby Parker, and the Mack Accounting Agency owned by Ed Mack and managed by Joe Pfister, with Lucille Sargent working at the switchboard.

The succeeding block is devoted exclusively to Woolberry's Department Store which is skillfully managed by Carolyn Fairbanks, Karen Kowalcek, Joan Ryan, Jerry Trautner, and Joan Carter. Here some of the most expert manufacturers have their products displayed: Phyllis Trott's hair dye, which is guaranteed to produce any color desired; Dave Noppa's elevated shoes made to add six inches to any man's height; Ann Morrison's vitamin pills to put "pep in every step," and Fred Schimke's "soft as a cloud" mattresses. Here, too, we have demonstrators like Barbara Janda and Sandra Cooper, who show practical household articles, which have been invented by Joanne Corliss.

Next in view is the Clintartica Trust Company owned by Louis Bryan, the illustrious banker. On the upper floors are the offices of the "Clintartica Daily Item," which is retained by the publisher Larry Coppenrath and his proofreader Harold Forhan. The doors to the editorial room stand open and at his desk we see Eddie Curran and Dick McNamara, co-editors. To their right is the famous cartoonist, Bee Hastings, who created "Grandpa," "Ricky Ray," and "Maisie Moose." Over in the corner are the reporters Sandy Suchovsky and Virginia Prus, authors of the recently published "How To Enjoy Watermelon."

Then, on our journey through Clintartica, we spy an artist, sitting beside the brook with her easel set up, capturing a bit of the scene on her canvas — Sue LaBrack, of course. Here and there, magnificent statues are seen, all bearing the name of the eminent sculptress, Maryann Nekuda.

In the athletic section of the park, all the sports enthusiasts are busy. Coaches Bob and John Fateiger, have their football team busily going through its paces. In the adjoining field, Coach Terry Kraft trains his Blue Sox baseball nine for the World Series. Women's sports are not neglected, for nearby, Karen Kerrigan and Joyce Gould train their respective women's basketball and softball teams.

Across the red-tiled highway is the University of the North Pole. Among those on the faculty are: Patricia Ryder, Dean of Women; Michael Shipley, Occupation Advisor; Alexia Wiencek, teacher of History; and in the business department we have teachers of various business sciences. The principals in these sections are: Betty Lizak, Franny Harrington and Arlene Kennedy.

A whitewashed construction unit is next on our travelogue. This is our clinic, the Clintartica Research Center, devoted to research in the field of medicine, under the direction of Robert Clapp, with Jane Ball as his medical secretary. The dentistry is administered by Roger Dickhaut, the only completely painless dentist in his field.

Glaring neon lights announce that the edifice close by is the universally known Black Fedora Night Club, owned by wealthy partners, John Whitney and Tommy Slattery. Culinary arts are in charge of Barbara Nosek, together with the famous dietician and chef, Sandra Copetas. At a ringside table you will find millionaire playboy, Fred Gillenwaters, with his partner, Andy Julsonnet, surrounded by a host of chorus girls.

The ultimate height of entertainment is reached in this gay cabaret, accompanied by the music of Bill Hohl and his band. Amid thunderous applause, appear fan dancer Doris Mueller, tap dancer Paul Oberg, and comedian George Dickhaut, who re-received his recognition acting as end man in the Great Minstrel Revues of 1970. All these acts are announced by impresario Steve Duvarney.

In conjunction with the night club is radio and television station WXTV, guided by George Flanagan. In addition to broadcasts from other countries and those from the Black Fedora, the network offers such programs as disc jockeys Richard Martineit and Fran McGovern, and the favorite serial of most housewives, "George's Two Wives," featuring Gail Mason and Nancy Collins.

On our way back to the airport we stop at a corner drug store built by the famous architect Paul Cherubini, and owned and managed by Bert Nicholas, with Carolyn Fox as his assistant.

As we go along the street we meet the famous lawyers, Jack Moran, Pat Kerrigan and Stanley Witkowski, who are in the midst of handling a very important case.

Next we see the Hairdressing Salon of Mary Scanlon and Rose Whelan. Working as chief hairstylists are Carol Piscia and Ruth Wagner. Famous flight nurse Teresa Flanagan is having her hair styled for an important flight with the noted astronomers Joe Silvester and Joe Ricketts, and their famous biographer Carol Zafirs.

Night is falling as we reach the end of our tour, and we depart for our various spaceships, satisfied now that we know how time has rewarded the efforts of the members of the Class of 1962.

The purpose of the Clinton High School paper is to inform the student body of the academic and social activities carried on throughout the year. The "Octopus," as it is traditionally called, is written, printed, and edited by the students themselves. The "Octopus," which is published monthly is very popular among the students, as can be imagined.

Under the excellent leadership of Faculty Advisor John J. Philbin, our school paper has become a worthwhile information center to guide all student activities and events.

WONDERLAND BY NIGHT

Our Junior Prom, which was adjudged by all to be the most beautiful in the history of Clinton High School, took place on June 9, 1961. This memorable occasion marked the highlight of our high school social life.

Working with the theme "Wonderland by Night," we transformed the Fallon Auditorium into a beautiful tropical garden. The 14-foot waterfall which glistened in the golden moonlight and sparkled beneath the twinkling, twirling crystal ball, completed the illusion of a wonderland by night.

The entire room was dressed with multitudes of handmade orchid and white flowers. Five hundred live orchids, imported from Hawaii, enhanced each table and became unique souvenirs for the girls.

As the one hundred and thirty couples entered the hall they walked through a life-sized star, covered with orchid flowers, into a garden of Eden. This area, majestically arranged with tropical plants and a bubbling three-tiered fountain, created a feeling of paradise.

The outstanding feature of the evening, from the spectators' viewpoint, was the elaborate and spectacular Coronation Ceremony. As members of the Junior Class formed an aisle, from one end of the hall to the other, President Paul Cherubini read the selection of the queen and her court. Each in her turn was escorted down the entire length of the aisle to the throne. Miss Carolyn Fairbanks, '62, was presented a lovely white ermine stole, symbolic of her selection as queen of the Prom. This magnificent ceremony, which so captivated the audience, is destined to become a tradition at C.H.S.

As the last strains of our theme song, played by Perry Conte's Orchestra, faded into the evening, our Prom, a last farewell to the Class of 1961, became a cherished memory.

"Fantasy of Angels"

The Class of '62 proudly presented its Senior Hop, "Fantasy of Angels," on February 9, 1962. The Fallon Memorial Auditorium, dismally blanketed in snow outside, was gaily decorated in a color scheme of blue and white inside. Hundreds of shimmering stars hung from the ceiling and delicate white angels adorned each table. The queen's throne was regally dressed in blue and white crepe paper, and sparkled with multi-colored glitter.

The Grand March, led by Mr. Robert A. Murphy, was climaxed with the traditional and tearful exchanging of caps and gowns.

The elegant Coronation Ceremony was concluded with the crowning of Miss Nancy Collins, '62, as queen.

As our last formal came to a close, not even the snowy weather could spoil the joyous memories of a wonderful evening.

KAPPA DELTA PHI

THE SENIOR GIRLS

Kappa Delta Phi, the Senior girls' sorority, is under the able guidance of Miss Mary Kerrigan. The aim of this worthwhile organization is to promote social grace and poise among the young ladies of the Senior class. The traditional highlight of this program is an assembly featuring top-flight fashions modeled by members of the sorority.

TAU SIGMA

THE SENIOR BOYS

The mark of a true scholar is his deep and abiding respect for authority and those who represent authority. To foster this principle, the Tau Sigma society presents each year a diversified program of instruction under the leadership of a faculty advisor, for the Senior boys.

As a culmination of the year's activities, a semi-formal dinner dance is usually held at which Senior boys are given the chance to display the social graces that they have accumulated.

BOYS' STATE

The Boys' State program was established by the American Legion to give promising young men of Massachusetts the opportunity to learn more about their government. During an eight-day period at the University of Massachusetts the boys are given the opportunity to express their own ideas as to how governments should be administered. These ideas are put into actual practice in the town meetings, and legislative sessions of Boys' State. By taking an active part in this program, the students will be exemplifying the fundamental principle of democracy.

The purpose of the Inter-class Dramatics is to stimulate the interest of those students with a flair for acting, directing and making scenery.

Each year the four classes of Clinton High School engage in stiff competition, each hoping to win the coveted trophy and glories that accompany first honors in the contest.

The Inter-class Dramatics provides an evening of enjoyment for all, as well as fun and experience for those interested in dramatics.

Her duty as a Junior Marshal is to serve as an usherette at the Seniors' graduation. Each girl is presented a red carnation to wear on her white dress.

CLASS RING COMMITTEE

The Class Ring Committee is responsible for selecting the design and style of the class ring. Facing upon an emerald stone is a crest affixed with the seal of Clinton High School, and on either side can be found the traditional academic shield composed of four stars, each star representing the goals of education: culture, intelligence, responsibility, and respect. The shield, in turn, is flanked by four gold bars, representing the four years of our secondary educational experiences.

Everyone agreed that the committee made a fine selection.

F O O T B A L L

The Clinton High School football teom of 1961, under the leadership of Coach Bob O'Brien and Assistant Coaches John Hester and Vic Sochon, was one of the best to represent our high school in recent years. After being at the bottom of the standings for the past eight years, Clinton High rose once agoin as a football powerhouse, much to be feared by every school.

St. John's Prep of Worcester was our first opponent in the annual pre-season Jamboree played at Fuller Field. Due to fine blocking and all-around good football, our boys walked off with a clean-cut 8-6 victory.

The regular season opened on the following Friday night against St. Peter's of Worcester. Although St. Peter's took an early 6-0 lead, our boys came storming back to defeot them, 33-6, with most of the reserves playing the fourth quorter.

Throughout the entire season, the Gaels displayed the type of football which had so long been missing from C.H.S. The Gaels continued on the winning troil ond, by the end of the season, had compiled a record of six wins, three losses, and one tie.

Included among their victories was the defeot of Marlboro High School. This game will go down in history as the greatest team effort of ony C.H.S. football team. Time and time again, during the game, the Gaels had their backs to the wall. But each time they came back, and when the final whistle had blown, the score read C.H.S. 13 — Marlboro 12. It was through countless efforts like this thot the Gaels were brought to the top once again in footboll.

Although the starting eleven will graduate in June, the experience the undergraduates have received by watching and ploying with these older boys will assure Clinton of another successful and, maybe, an undefeated season next yeor.
